Attitudes Towards Online Sexual Activities Survey

The Scottish Government was interested to find out more about young people’s knowledge of and opinions about sexual behaviours occurring online. To help achieve this, they approached Young Scot to host and disseminate an online survey.

Young Scot currently has 689,210 cardholders across the whole of Scotland. The age range of these cardholders span 11-25, with the largest age groups being 20 and 21. A full breakdown of the current* cardholder numbers by age is shown below.

A major part of the Young Scot service is Young Scot Rewards (<https://rewards.youngscot.org/>). Each cardholder is eligible to register for the Young Scot Rewards platform, whereby they can complete “Activities” to earn “Rewards Points”. These points can then be exchanged for a variety of products, opportunities and experiences. The Rewards platform currently has 93,369 users. Below is a breakdown of the current Rewards Users by age.

The survey was hosted on Young Scot Rewards from 11th January to 5th February 2019 and was promoted across Young Scot’s social media platforms, Young Scot’s Get Involved page (www.young.scot/get-involved) and other relevant networks. There were 1,173 completed responses to the survey.

*based on the most up to date figures provided by NECPO (data as of 31st January 2019).
based on an extract pulled from the Rewards platform on 31st January 2019.

Executive Summary

Survey Results

Personal Safety Online

1. Over three quarters of respondents (78%) stated that they felt either Safe or Very Safe online. Five percent selected either Very Unsafe or Unsafe and 17% were Not sure. Older respondents were more likely to select Safe or Very Safe compared to younger respondents.
2. The majority of respondents (81%) stated that they feel either Confident or Very Confident online, 16% selected Slightly confident and 3% Not confident. Older respondents were more likely to select Confident or Very Confident compared to younger respondents.

Sharing Photos Online

1. Most respondents (78%) were aware that it is an offence to take a nude photo of themselves and share it if they are under 18. Respondents who were 11-13 years old selected No or Don't know more often than older respondents.
2. A large majority (93%) were aware that it is an offence for someone else to share a nude photo of them if they are under 18. A tenth of 11-13 year old respondents selected No.
3. Three quarters were aware that it is not possible to ensure that a photo that has been shared is not seen by people that they did not want to see it. Around a quarter (26%) of respondents aged 11-13 thought that you were able to make sure that a photo is not shared.
4. Almost two thirds (65%) of respondents stated that the main reason that they think people ask for nude photos is Because they are attracted to them. Older respondents selected this more often than younger respondents. Around a quarter (26%) of respondents aged 11-13 selected so they can show their friends. Respondents who selected Other provided reasons such as for sexual pleasure, because of pressure or power and for status.
5. When asked how easy it would be to say no to someone popular who was requesting nude photos, around three quarters (76%) stated that it would be Easy or Very easy to say no. Younger respondents stated that they would find this more difficult to say no to than older respondents. A quarter of respondents aged 11-13 selected Difficult or Very difficult.

Education About Sexual Issues

1. Over half of respondents (56%) stated that their school had given them guidance about sharing sexual images and sexual behaviour online. This rate was similar across the age ranges.
2. When asked what type of guidance, respondents stated that they had been informed of risks and consequences, informed of the law and told do not engage in online sexual activities. Respondents also gave examples of how this guidance had been given (e.g. via PSE lessons or police talks) and examples of specific organisations that had visited them (e.g. CEOP and RASAC).
3. When asked where they preferred to get information about sex from, almost half of respondents (47%) selected Internet. However, a third of 11-13 year old respondents selected Classes at school. The second most popular choice within this age group was a tie between Internet and Friends. Respondents who selected Other provided examples such as professional services (e.g. GP or other health professionals) and education or youth groups.

4. When asked if they thought if there were concerns/issues/problems that boys faced more than girls in regards to sexual behaviour online, 50% agreed that there were, 37% disagreed and 6% thought that issues were equal for both genders.
5. When asked if they thought if there were concerns/issues/problems that girls faced more than boys in regards to sexual behaviour online, 83% agreed that there were, 17% disagreed and 4% thought that issues were equal for both genders*.
6. Respondents identified similar issues for both of these questions, with the most frequent responses being in relation to Peer pressure or unfair expectations, Body image or self-esteem, Expected to share photos of themselves and Can be exploited by scammers online.
7. Themes that were applicable to only boys included Risk of being blamed or prosecuted, Share more between peers about online activities and Porn as a source of sex education.
8. Themes that were applicable to only girls included Judged for actions more than boys, Unsolicited attention online and Objectification or sexualisation.

Important Notes

Non-pertinent responses

Some responses have been labelled as 'non-pertinent'. These were typed responses that were deemed either overly explicit or not understandable. Due to the emotive nature of this survey we have been vigilant when labelling responses as non-pertinent.

Segmentation by age

The survey gathered responses from young people across the Young Scot target age range (11-25). It was requested that responses be filtered by school age (11-18) and non-school age (19-25). However, respondents aged 19-25 only made up 7% of the total respondent sample, meaning that removing these responses did not impact the results. Therefore, responses are reported firstly as the overall result (from respondents aged 11-25) and then split down into three groups: 11-13, 14-16 and 17-18. Responses to the qualitative questions have not been split in this way.

*Some responses included "Yes" and "No" and would have therefore been categorised into both themes. This is why the total of these figures is above 100%.

Survey Results

Personal Safety Online

How safe do you feel online?

Most respondents (78%) stated that they feel either Safe or Very Safe online.

*Very unsafe: 1%

Safe was the most commonly selected response across respondents aged 11-18. However, older respondents were more likely to select Safe or Very Safe compared to younger respondents.

11-13 Very unsafe: 3%; 14-16 Very unsafe: 1%; 17-18 Very unsafe: 1%

How confident are you that you understand the risks around online sexual behaviour?

Most respondents (81%) stated that they feel either Confident or Very Confident online.

*Not confident: 3%

Confident was the most commonly selected response across respondents aged 11-18. However, older respondents were more likely to select Confident or Very Confident compared to younger respondents.

11-13 Not confident: 7%; 14-16 Not confident: 3%; 17-18 Not confident: 1%

Sharing photos online

Is it an offence to take a nude photo of yourself and share it if you are under 18?

The majority of respondents aged 11-18 selected Yes. When looking between the age groups, the 11-13 year old respondents selected No or Don't know more often than older respondents.

Is it an offence for someone else to share a nude photo of you if you are under 18?

The majority of respondents aged 11-18 selected Yes. A tenth of 11-13 year old respondents selected No.

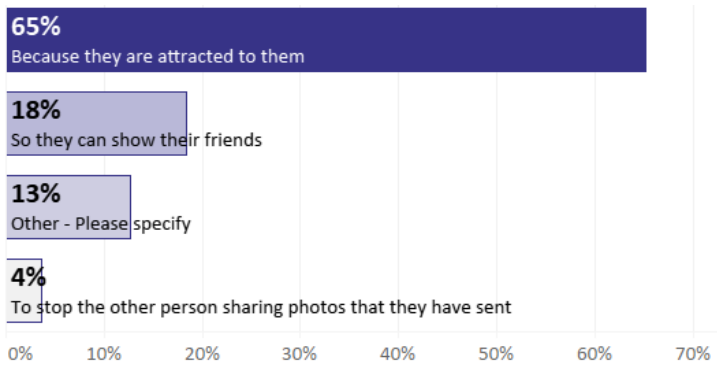

14-16 No: 3%
17-18 No: 3%

Is it possible to make sure that a nude photo you have shared is not seen by people that you do not want to see it?

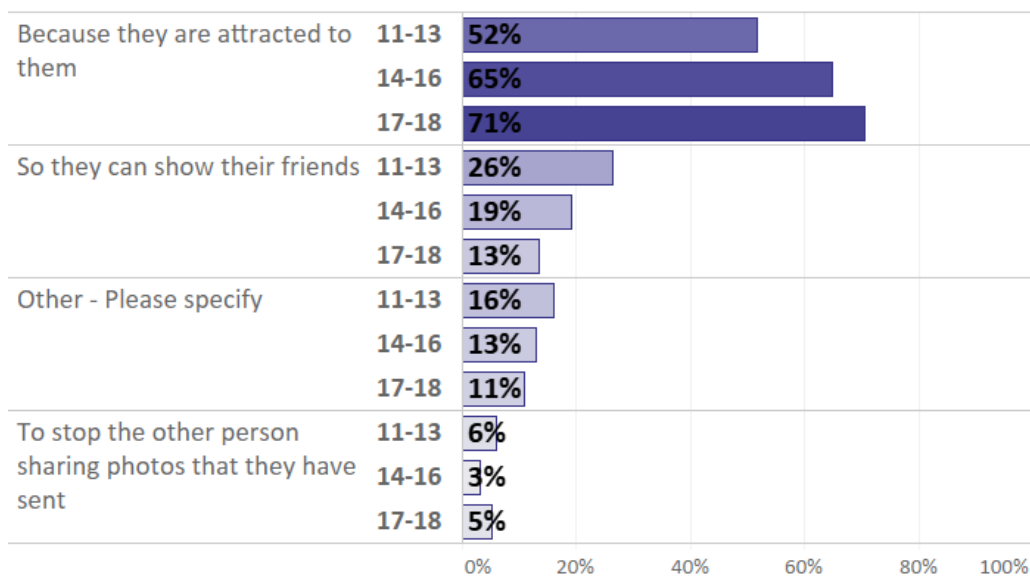

When looking at the age breakdown, around a quarter of respondents aged 11-13 selected Yes.

What do you think is the main reason people ask others to send them nude photos?

Almost two thirds of respondents (65%) selected because they are attracted to them.

The most common answer for respondents aged 11-18 was because they are attracted to them. However, older respondents selected this more often than younger respondents. Around a quarter of respondents aged 11-13 selected so they can show their friends.

Of the 149 respondents who selected Other, all provided a written response. Two responses were deemed non-pertinent. Six respondents wrote a version of Don't know/not sure and thirteen respondents wrote a version of All of the above.

Responses may have been categorised under several themes so the graph does not total 100%.

Half of respondents who selected Other identified some form of sexual pleasure. Four respondents stated that pictures could be used as an alternative to pornography.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Sexual pleasure	Sexual pleasure	70
	Alternative to pornography	4
	Long distance relationships	1

Forty-four responses described pressure – either to send photos or an expectation to request photos from someone else.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Pressure or power	Blackmail or manipulation	22
	Peer pressure	9
	Bullying	6
	Societal or cultural expectation	4

	"Boys are weird"	1

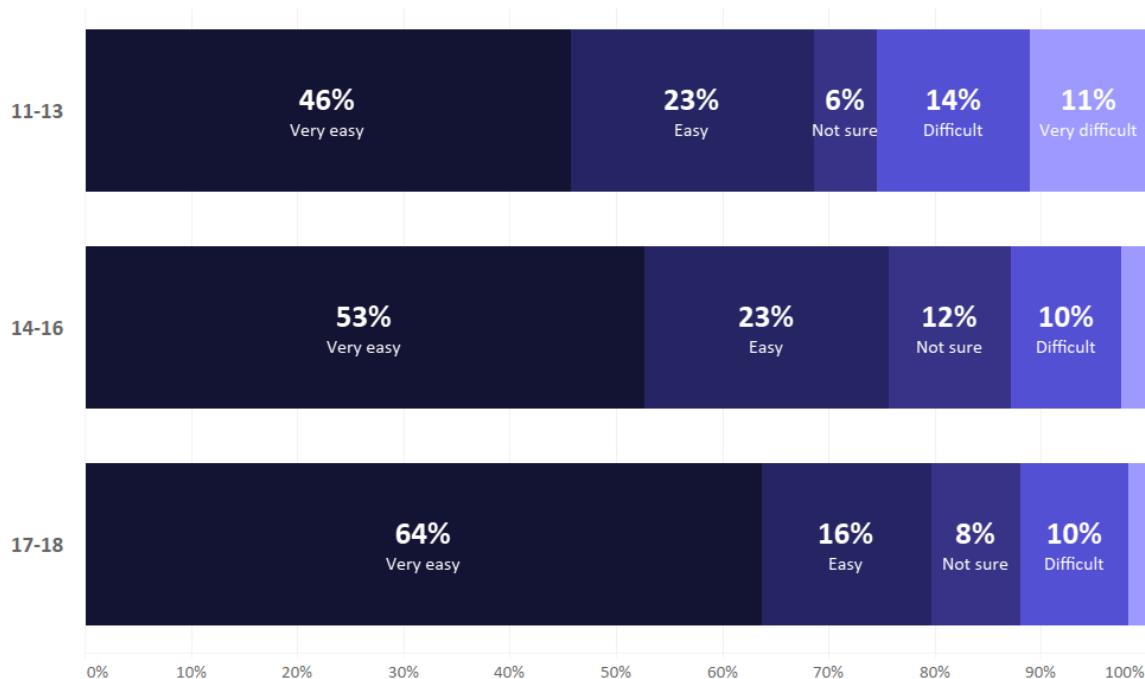

If a popular person in your school asked you to send a nude photo of yourself and you didn't want to, how easy would it be to say no?

Around three quarters (76%) stated that it would be Easy or Very easy to say no.

*Very difficult: 3%

When looking at responses from those aged 11-18, younger respondents would find this more difficult to say no to than older respondents. A quarter of respondents aged 11-13 selected Difficult or Very difficult.

14-16 Very difficult: 2%; 17-18 Very difficult: 2%

Education about sexual issues

Has your school given you any guidance about sharing sexual images and sexual behaviour online?

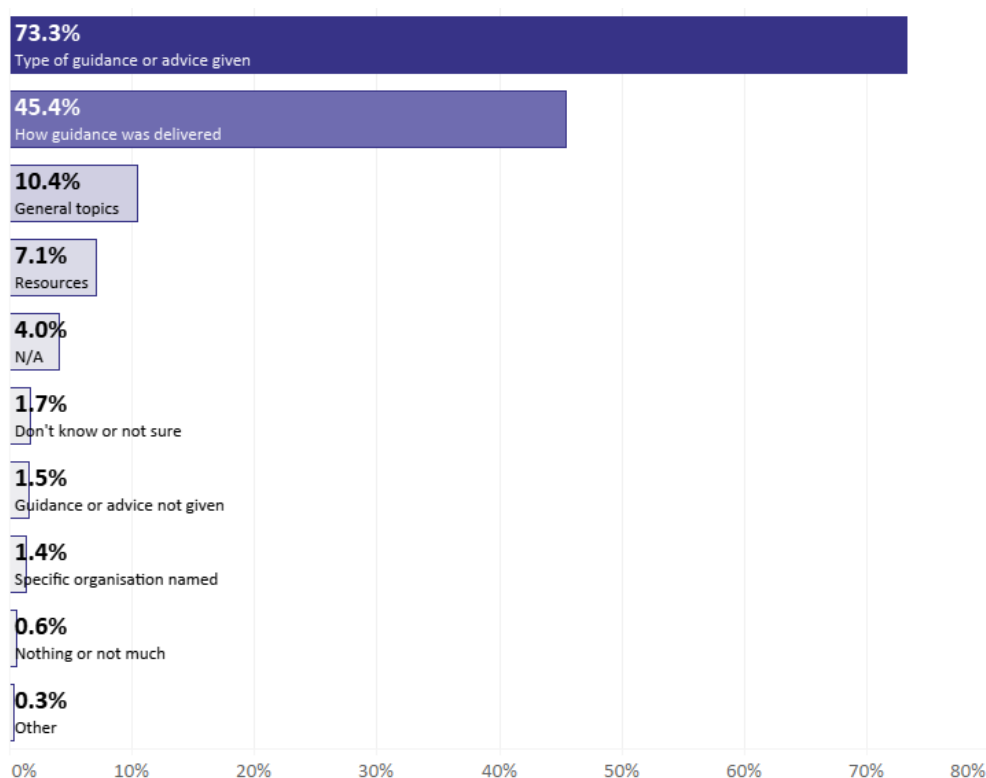

These responses were similar across respondents aged 11-18.

What kind of guidance have they given you?

Of the 652 respondents who stated that their school had given them some form of guidance, all provided a written description of this guidance.

Of the 149 respondents who selected Other, all provided a written response. Twenty-six responses were deemed non-pertinent and eleven respondents wrote a version of Don't know/not sure. Two responses were categorised as Other as they did not fit under the other themes.

Responses may have been categorised under several themes so the graph does not total 100%.

Most respondents described the type of guidance or advice. This was mainly in relation to the risks and consequences of inappropriate sexual behaviour online or warning against doing it at all.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Type of guidance or advice given	Informed of risks or consequences	190
	Do not engage in any online sexual activities	138
	Informed of law	81

“We had a lesson about online safety and the topic of 'sexual images' was brought in the lesson.”

Forty-six responses described the resources used to give the guidance. Six respondents identified the need for these to be updated.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Resources	Videos	33
	Posters or leaflets	7
	Outdated resources or advice	6

“Presentation slides and an out of date video. It wasn't very modern - probably from 2000 - and wasn't very up to date on the local laws and modern technology. It was outdated and didn't help many people in the class understand.”

Ten respondents identified areas where guidance was not given, including what is against the law.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Guidance or advice not given	Not informed of risks or consequences	6
	Not informed of law	3
	Not enough information about consent or underage sex	1

“...They didn't tell us about the exact laws surrounding explicit photos though. They didn't explain that it was an offence to take an explicit photo of yourself if you were under 18.”

Where do you prefer to get most of your information about sex from?

Almost half of respondents (47%) selected Internet.

The most common response differed between age groups. While most respondents aged 14-18 selected Internet, a third of 11-13 year old respondents selected Classes at school. The second most popular choice within this age group was a tie between Internet and Friends.

Of the 54 respondents who selected Other, all provided a written response. One response was deemed non-pertinent and five respondents wrote a version of Don't know/not sure. Three respondents wrote a version of All of the above.

Seventeen respondents stated that they do not access their information about sex from any particular place.

Do you think that there are concerns/issues/problems that boys in general face more than girls in regards to sexual behaviour online?

All respondents provided a response to this question. Forty responses were deemed non-pertinent and 158 respondents wrote a version of Don't know/not sure. Seven responses were categorised as Other as they did not fit under the other themes. Themes were generally split into agreement or disagreement with the statement (shown below). There were also respondents who stated that issues between boys and girls were equal.

Responses may have been categorised under several themes so the graph does not total 100%.

The response provided most often was a version of No (366 responses).

The most common response by those who agreed with the statement was that there were expectations placed on boys (168 responses). This was mainly from peers, but the wider issues of stereotyping and media representation were also highlighted.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes - Expectations or pressure	Peer pressure or unfair expectations	104
	Expected to share photos of themselves	37
	Stigma or stereotyping	27

“There is a lot of pressure on boys to be always flirting with the girls and if he doesn't he could get judged by his friends. I think many teenage boys feel pressured to do certain things with girls or send or ask for photos they don't necessarily want just to look cool amongst their friends”

A tenth of respondents (113) identified actions of boys that cause them more concerns than girls.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes - Actions	Boys ask for photos more often	47
	Send unwanted explicit pictures	16
	Share more between peers about online activities	15
	Higher sex drive	13
	Exploitation of or risk to girls	11
	Do stupid things	3
	Don't think about person behind pictures	3
	Share things they shouldn't	3
	Don't think about consequences	2

"I feel that boys tend to be more comfortable talking about those kind of things (not always in a positive or respectful way) and it's less of a tabooed topic. I know that boys are far more likely to send pictures - one of my friends gets dick pics every day. They're also more likely to share them around - one girl got in a lot of trouble after sending a picture to one boy, who then shared it so practically everyone in our year had seen it."

Ninety-six respondents wrote a version of Yes.

Seventy-two respondents stated that boys do not experience as many concerns/issues/problems as girls.

"Not really. I feel girls are more likely to be victimised or pressured into conducting some form of sexual behaviour online. Boys may get victimised too perhaps but not as often as girls."

Sixty-nine respondents stated that issues are the same across all genders.

"No, I feel as though sexual behaviours and their problems are generally equal between the sexes."

Sixty-eight respondents stated that boys experience more consequences than girls, mainly that they are at greater risk of being blamed for sexual behaviour.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes - Consequences	Risk of being blamed or prosecuted	41
	Punishment is greater than girls	11
	Ridiculed more over online behaviour	10
	Punishment is lesser than girls	6

"Boys are looked at as being monsters and the ones always in the wrong like it's always going to be the boy asking for the pictures when it isn't always the case. They are blamed automatically."

Thirty-six respondents stated that society judges boys differently to girls. Seven responses highlighted some difficulties faced by the LGBTQ+ community.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Societal Issues	Body image or self-esteem	27

LGBTQ+ Issues	7
Toxic masculinity	2

“I think that there is also a lot of body image pressure towards boys, just as much if not more than girls, but this is rarely ever mentioned.”

Thirty-one respondents stated that the issues that boys experience are underrepresented compared to girls’. Some respondents highlighted that they may not be able to talk about these issues as a result.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Underrepresentation	Unable to talk about issues or ask for help	14
	Underrepresentation of these issues	9
	Not taken as seriously as girls	5
	Less educated than girls on these topics	3

“Boys are taken less seriously than girls in the topic of sexual behaviour if they have an issue therefore have fear of speaking up about it”

Twenty-four respondents stated boys can be targeted by scams or predators.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Exploitation	Can be exploited by scammers online	14
	Not expected to be target of grooming	10

“Scammers/viruses often prey on boys' sexuality and naivety.”

Twenty-two respondents identified behaviour by girls that could cause boys issues.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Behaviour by girls	Photos that they send are shared more often	11
	Harassment by girls	5
	Blackmail	4
	Ignored by girls	2

“Getting harassed by girls and nothing gets done about it because “all guys want it” and girls perpetuate this myth the most. Look at videos online, when a man is harassed by a woman no one bats an eye. Also, girls are a lot worse for spreading around nude pictures of both genders in my area.”

Eighteen respondents highlighted issues around pornography and media representation.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Issues around media and pornography	Porn as a source of sex education	12
	Media representation of males	3
	Revenge porn	2
	Addiction to pornography	1

“I think that boys are more likely to watch porn and then say stuff to girls without realizing that it's really uncomfortable and giving them too high of expectations.”

Seven responses were categorised as Other as they did not fit under the other themes.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Other	Comment on government	1
	Bad feelings towards each other	1
	Forced into relationships	1
	Lie online	1
	Make inappropriate jokes	1
	Seen as more mature	1
	Boys may feel uncomfortable using urinals	1

Do you think that there are concerns/issues/problems that girls in general face more than boys in regards to sexual behaviour online?

All respondents provided a response to this question. Forty-seven responses were deemed non-pertinent and 133 respondents wrote a version of Don't know/not sure. Six responses were categorised as Other as they did not fit under the other themes. Themes were generally split into agreement or disagreement with the statement (shown below). There were also respondents who stated that issues between boys and girls were equal.

Responses may have been categorised under several themes so the graph does not total 100%. Some respondents said “Yes” and “No” which would be placed under both categories which is why the bubbles above do not total 100%.

The most common response by those who agreed with the statement was that there were expectations placed on girls (265 responses). Girls were identified as being sent photos more often than boys, and that they were expected to respond. There also seems to be more pressure arising from social media.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes - Expectations or pressure	Peer pressure or unfair expectations	100
	Asked for photos more often	80
	Expected to share photos of themselves	45
	Pressure from social media	16
	Difference in sexual expectations compared to boys	13
	Pressure in relationships	7
	Stigma or stereotyping	4

“They seem to be more often pressured to send nude pictures. There is also pressure amongst girls to post slightly revealing pictures on social media such as Instagram and Snapchat, to which many boys often feel it's their right to comment on - sexualised comments that they would be a lot less likely to use in real life.”

The next most common response provided was a version of Yes (182 responses).

Almost all of the 180 respondents that mentioned consequences thought that girls face more problems when it comes to their sexual behaviour compared to boys. However, three respondents stated that girls are less punished than boys when it comes to this behaviour.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes - Consequences	Photos are shared more than boys'	44
	Bullying	20
	Repercussions of rumours are stronger	8
	Sensitive	8
	Judged by other females	6
	Punishment is lesser than boys	3
	Regret actions more than boys	3

“I think for girls often nude photos being spread have more of a lasting effect on a girl's reputation compared to guys”

Around 13% of respondents (153) stated that society judges girls differently to boys.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Societal Issues	Body image or self-esteem	48
	More often victims of violence or harassment	36
	Objectification or sexualisation	34
	More vulnerable	15
	Unable to speak up for themselves	8
	Victimisation or victim blaming	7
	Sexism	5

“Girls bodies still aren't accepted in our society, it's is still seen as inappropriate to show a bit of skin and it makes girls feel more self-conscious.”

A tenth of respondents (116) identified behaviour by boys that could cause girls issues. These responses were mainly in relation to receiving unwanted comments/pictures online.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Behaviour by girls	Unsolicited attention online	51
	Unsolicited explicit pictures	42
	Blackmail	13
	Threatened if they do not want to send pictures	10

“It does seem that girls receive explicit invitations online an awful lot more than boys. I was shocked to learn how many of my female friends had received requests for nude photos or online relationships from complete strangers.”

Forty-seven respondents stated that issues are the same across all genders.

“I think both genders have issues online. For examples, both sending or receiving unwanted pictures”

Forty-six respondents stated girls can be targeted by scams or predators.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Exploitation	Targets for older men or grooming	36
	Can be exploited by scammers online	7
	Photos being taken without knowledge	3

“Definitely as girls for some reason are always getting 'perved' on by mainly men and most of the time it leads into blackmail which is really bad and scary too.”

Twenty respondents asked for the reader to look at their answer to the previous question.

Sixteen respondents identified actions that girls made that caused them issues.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes - Actions	Insecure or want attention	11
	Take advantage of being seen as a victim	2
	Ignore boys	1
	More likely to make first move	1
	Able to ask for photos more than boys	1

“I feel like girls do share sexual things online because they are insecure and want that attention from others.”

Thirteen respondents highlighted issues around pornography and media representation.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Yes – Issues around media and pornography	Media representation of females	6
	Revenge porn	4
	Pressure from pornography	3

“Girls may feel pressure to groom themselves in a certain way due to the unreachable standards set by online pornography.”

Four respondents stated that it was dependent on the person.

“Some feel pressure to feel send nudes or to look a certain way. Some girls don't feel this way. Just depends how resilient a person is.”

Three respondents stated that boys do not experience as many concerns/issues/problems as girls.

“No. Girls experience less humiliation in regards to online sexual behaviour than boys do.”

Ten responses were categorised as Other as they did not fit under the other themes. Four respondents stated that girls have to deal with puberty and periods.

Main Theme	Secondary Theme	Number of responses
Other	Periods and puberty	4
	Boys on internet more	1
	Contraception	1
	Doing stuff without permission	1
	High expectations of boys	1
	Random encounters	1
	Yes if underage	1

Summary of Findings

It is clear that the young people who completed this survey are aware of the risks of online sexual behaviour, with most feeling safe and confident being online. Most respondents stated that they were aware of the laws surrounding behaviour online, and around three quarters said that it would be easy to refuse a request for photos from someone popular.

However, responses to the two open questions at the end of the survey suggest that respondents feel that both boys and girls are under pressure to send nude photos to others. Peer pressure or unfair expectations, Expected to share photos of themselves and Stigma or stereotyping were themes that arose from both questions. Despite the fact that similar themes were produced from both questions, only 6% of responses in the first question and 4% in the second stated that they thought issues were the same across the gender spectrum.

The majority of main themes were present in answers to both questions: Actions, Behaviour by [opposite sex], Consequences, Expectations or pressure, Exploitation, Issues around media and pornography and Societal issues. However, the amount of responses differed between each gender: more respondents for the question about boys gave an answer regarding Actions whereas Societal issues were more common answers for the question about girls.

There were also some themes that were not present in both sets of answers. For the question about boys, one of the main themes was Underrepresentation, with secondary themes of Unable to talk about issues or ask for help, Not taken as seriously as girls and Less educated than girls on these topics. There were also secondary themes regarding Risk of being blamed or prosecuted, Not expected to be targets of grooming and Use of porn as sex education. For the question about girls there were secondary themes such as Judged for actions more than boys, More often victims of violence or harassment and Unsolicited attention online.

When it comes to education around these issues, over half of respondents had received some guidance via their school. These were mostly in the form of assemblies, presentations and talks and delivered by a variety of people including police and youth organisations. Most of the guidance was about the risks or consequences of such actions, with laws also being highlighted. However, some respondents highlighted that they were not aware of the range of consequences or laws, simply being told not to engage in such behaviour. This was seen as insufficient, and some respondents highlighted that the approach they experienced was “outdated”.

Demographics

Demographics: Age

The survey received responses from across the whole Young Scot age range. Most were aged 15 or 16.

Demographics: What Local Authority do you live in?

There was representation across all 32 Local Authorities from survey respondents.

Demographics: Gender

Sixty-one percent of respondents in the survey identified as female and 36% identified as male. Of the remaining three percent, 24 respondents selected non-binary 12 respondents selected something else, and one respondent selected intersex. Fifty-three respondents have identified as transgender at some point in their lives.
